I'm on call about it now. I will be traveling in Portland Wednesday and Thursday, but can try to find time to talk. We've gotten a congressional call on it and our policy advisor has given Nicole D. a heads up.

Hi Folks:

See clip below and let me know if you want to discuss. It's the second story on this topic in this Ag publication.

EPA was kept informed as federally funded campaign to discredit farmers took shape

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency received regular reports as a public relations firm used EPA funding to craft a campaign to raise public alarm about water quality in the Puget Sound.
